The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wiemer 6193079 in view of Rankin, VI 6464089. Wiemer teaches a merchandising system having a mount 46 which couples by way of snap fit to multiple locations on base 19 and further including a suspending member 70 which is comprised of a hook with a curved portion 74 at the end. Wiemer also teaches a track portion 62 having a front and a rear and positioned above the suspending member. Rankin, VI teaches a merchandising system having track 14, a biasing member 52 and a pusher 36. To provide the merchandising system of Wiemer with a pusher having a biasing mechanism as taught by the merchandising system of Rankin, VI for the purpose of advancing merchandise toward the consumer to facilitate sales would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure and is cited on the attached Notice of References Cited.
